When activated, the chambers sequentially inflate and deflate, creating a gentle wave-like motion that directs lymph fluid from the impaired areas of the affected limb, toward the healthy regions of the body. The fluid is then naturally absorbed and processed by your body. If left untreated, lymphedema can lead to serious bacterial skin infections called cellulitis. Studies have shown that the Flexitouch system is the only pneumatic compression device proven to stimulate the lymphatic system, increase quality of life, and reduce episodes of cellulitis.
